ATLANTA

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 4.

Finally the French Republicans have got a nickname for the Prince Imperial. They call him "Invincible IV."

The full figures of the Boston census foot up $34,919,162,325 males and 179,667 females—a gain of about 20 per cent, in ten years.

The new Missouri constitution receives almost unanimous support from the press of the state. Only eight papers, and those of minor importance, oppose it.

COL. FORNEY finds the German language as "gracious and amiable" as that may possibly make it to satisfy his desire to explain what Pacific Mail matter concerns which he has had nothing to do with.

Now we want to furnish nine presidential candidates—six republican and four democratic. For the former Messrs. Evans, Pierrepont, Morgan, Fish and Conkling; for the latter, Tilden, Church, Seymour and McClellan.

BARNARD FRITHON, clerk of the West Virginia legislature, is urged by the Texas and West Virginians papers for the clerkship of the United States House of Representatives "There are a good many of 'em."

WHATEVER may be said by the contrarians calling our currency "worthless," they are on the broad basis of our twenty-one hundred millions of our bonds—is that the rest of the nation.

"Let me only man escape if it can be avoided." It does really mean business, why did he put that in? D. X. did not say "shoot him on the spot" if there is a hot gun handy?"—[St. Louis Times.]

The "foaming boozin" Brown, which arrived at San Francisco the other day, with twenty-two men sick, after having buried thirteen of them, belongs to Edw ard Bates, N. P., the great ship owner, whom Mr. Phillips so highly deserved.

SENATOR HAMLIN's faction of the republican party in Maine is said to be receiving marks of popular favor, and the cause of the state's postal postage bill will have to be necessary to make it absolutely certain that the senator is serving his last term in the senate.

The New York World's Washington correspondent telegraphs: "The best information that can be obtained here points to the re-election of Gov. Allen. This is conceded even by hard-money democrats." The "hard-money" World is an anti-Alien paper.

The Mobile Register, naturally enough, is not at all pleased with the instruction of a Northern paper that Davis, the Lieutenant governor of Mississipi, is a mulatto. It regards this as an attempt to account for Davis' racial propensities—"the score of white blood in his veins. He is a genuine African."

In the light of recent events, the following paragraph, which has been "going the rounds" of the mail and newspapers for the past month, has a ring of probability about it: "Arizona is tired of greenbacks, and seeing the property of her hard-money neighbor, California, is thinking of adopting the gold standard." "Prosperity," indeed.

KENTUCKY'S NEW GOVERNOR.

Custom requires a resigning governor in Kentucky to deliver a valid address at the inaugural services of his successor. This is rendered the more proper and useful by the fact that the sessions of the legislature are biennial. Otherwise the retiring governor would go out of office without a chance to "review" the acts of the last two years of his administration. So Gov. Leslie told his story, and in some respects it was a very pleasant one, both to himself and his hearers, for the close of his administration found the commonwealth free from debt. Few states are as fortunate, and it may well be that Gov. Leslie rolled the statement over his tongue as a sweet morsel. The state redeemed during his administration over a million of its indebtedness, leaving only $183,394 in outstanding redeemable bonds, for the redemption of which the state holds $262,500 in United States 5% stocks. The federal government owes the state nearly three hundred thousand dollars on account of "war claims;" and thus, says Gov. Leslie, it will be seen that the financial condition of the state is sound. Indeed, it is.

Gov. Leslie spoke of the security that now exists in every part of the state; of the geological survey, of her state table and penal institutions; of the common school system, which has had a vigorous and healthy development, and last of the improved political condition of the state and country. Kentucky stands, he said, "a proud emblem in the key stone of the democratic arch! She could give no surer token of her future than in placing the scutcheon of her honor in the hands of the able statesman, the tried and true democrat, who to-day assumes the gubernatorial chair." And then he introduced his successor, who, he said, was a statesman, a leader, and the people of the whole country earnestly advocating peace and reconciliation, and all looking to the constitution as the guarantee of our liberties and the safeguard of every citizen.

There is nothing Bourbounish in such sentiments, and they run through the whole of his address. Kentucky, he says, near the close, "is a component part of the great federal union—one state in a grand confederation of states. We share our part of the honor or dishonor, the glory or shame of the republic, and I desire our commonwealth to be in full accord and harmony with her sister states—always upholding and supporting the constitution—ever striving to advance the true interests of the whole country, and ever endeavoring to add to the grandeur and glory of a wondrous world."

THE SEPTEMBER ELECTIONS.

Our dispatches show that the Democrats of California have swept the state. The whole state ticket is elected by a large majority, and we certainly hope that some from other counties, and I noticed some of the conversations of attorneys and others, while at the hotel, that is to say, by representative men on public occasions.

The regular term of the superior court commenced here yesterday. Monday, the 1st, the trial began for Prof. Bartow, Whittfield, Cawood and Dade counties. Perhaps some from other counties, and I noticed some of the conversations of attorneys and others, while at the hotel, that is to say, by representative men on public occasions.

GOVERNOR McCRARY'S inaugural address was brief, earnest, patriotic, and at times eloquent. A restoration of good feeling should be, he said, the earnest wish of every patriotic heart. He hoped to see the records of secession, treason, and reconstruction laid away forever, and the people of the whole country earnestly advocating peace and reconciliation, and all looking to the constitution as the guarantee of our liberties and the safeguard of every citizen.

One gentleman remarked that if the next democratic candidate for governor did not reside with the same energy and determination as he did, he would be defeated, and I believe he will be, if he does, no one residing west of the Chatahoocoochee river holds any office in the state, except Col. Clegg, who is a member of his son-in-law's family, and any other not residing here.
